

To arrange and organize different co-curricular activities the students of architecture formed several groups or clubs. The main club is known as ASAC. The architectural education system involves diverse courses like photography, music, art etc. Often these topics turn into passion of the students. But due to the pressure in regular work it is not always possible to manage time for these fields of interests. To find scope for these interests, to make the students more attached with the department, to build stronger companionship and to free the students from all negative distractions, the clubs are organized as platforms. Under the supervision of the teachers, students often show their hidden potentialities in these clubs. ASAC holds five different clubs:

- Cultural club
- Movie club
- Photography club
- Sports club
- & Tour management

ASAC
Architecture
Students'
Activity
Club

ASAC photography

ASPC or Architecture Student Photography Club is a platform for students who share common interest in photography. Architecture and photography have lots of common grounds to share with each other; framing, composition, color, light are few of those. This is an important medium of architectural presentation and documentation. The club regularly organizes photography tours including, but not limited to, places of architectural importance. Two such tours were arranged in Panam Nagar and in Botanical Garden, Dhaka in 2011.

ASAC film

Architectural students' movie club known as ASMC aims to create the habit of watching good movies. The cinematography, direction, handling of camera, process of making these are the topics movie club highlights. Movie club organizes weekly movie show. Every Thursday evening is the time for showing movie. Movie club also have an archive of rare movies, documentaries, animations and video lectures.

ASAC cultural

The cultural club is known as ASCC (architectural students' cultural club). ASCC mainly organizes ceremonies like fresher's reception, farewell as well as celebrates national events like the Liberation day, Pohela Boishakh with proper cultural events

The club for arranging tours organizes different excursions for the students of architecture. This club arranged tours at the National Assembly Complex, Dhaka as well as at Banbarban, Chittagong in 2010. The club also organizes picnic every semester. They have successfully organized picnics in Shaturia and Padma resort.

Sport club is a platform for students interested in various games and sporting events. Beside the regular interdepartmental sport events organized by the university, this club organizes tournaments like badminton, table tennis, football etc within the department of architecture. One of such notable event is APL (architectural premier league), a cricket tournament which creates much enthusiasm among the students.

ASAC tour ASAC sports

